A distinguished tax professional with over 14 years of experience, Ashley is a proud alumna of Oklahoma State University, where she earned her B.S. in Accounting and Finance in 2010. Currently serving as a Tax Partner at HoganTaylor, she brings a wealth of expertise in tax compliance, planning, and consulting.

Ashley's diverse clientele includes closely held businesses, pass-through entities, and high-net-worth individuals. However, her passion lies in the nonprofit sector, where she is recognized for her considerable expertise working with private foundations, civic organizations, universities, and various public charities. Beyond traditional tax services, she serves as an outsourced CFO/controller for several nonprofit organizations, playing a key role in their financial well-being and strategic growth.

Beyond her professional pursuits, Ashley finds joy in traveling and spending quality time with her husband, Ryan, and two children, Finn and Margot. This balance between professional excellence and a rich family life reflects Ashley's commitment to a well-rounded and fulfilling existence.

Ashley's blend of expertise, leadership, and community involvement positions her as a prominent figure in the public accounting landscape, dedicated to both professional excellence and community impact.
